Robot Call

Neotel's Robot Call has a main functionality which consists of distributing messages to a list of clients in an agile, economic and efficient way.

The Robot Call executes its task in the following way: it makes a quantity of massive and simultaneous calls so that these reproduce a voice message that previously has been recorded and even giving the option to the client that is called to press some option of its telephone keyboard for, for example, that it is transferred (or not) with a commercial agent.
